Prices are F.O.B. mill, excluding freight

Pete and Repeat were sittin' on a fence. Pete fell off and you know who was left, right? At the risk of sounding like a broken record... Lumber prices continue to struggle under current market conditions. While mills are trying hard to dig in and prop the market up, the secondaries are cracking like Keith Richard's face on a hot Vegas day. Meanwhile, OSB seems somehow to not really sell, yet not really drop in price. It's like magic... but we all know that magic isn't real. Early wintry weather across the country may cause disruptions on both supply & demand this week.
