Prices are F.O.B. mill, excluding freight

While still hot, the pace of the market slowed this week on the combination of long order files and some wet weather in the southern markets. Mills were happy to ride into Memorial Day with the first half of June in the bag. Buyers took pause at current levels, unwilling to pull the trigger on purchases they likely wouldn't see until July. Availability at the secondary level improved ever so slightly, but finding anything that is not an "A" mover remains very difficult. Be safe this weekend!
