Prices are F.O.B. mill, excluding freight

The lumber market this week was a very mixed bag. SPF and DF remain on a slight upward tilt but the strength of the run is definitely waning. Big Box takeaway continues to drive the treaters into scramble mode, but SYP dimension is past it's apex and in decline. OSB mills continue to take a firm stance on pricing, but secondaries are eroding the foundation of the market by undercutting mill pricing. Once hot 2x4-9 ft studs have lost their luster and are in correction mode.
