On this week's episode of 2020, the search for all things wooden continued to frustrate buyers and traders across the country. Because we wouldn't want it to get boring, a couple of hurricanes were thrown into the mix, the latter of which hit the Gulf Coast as a Cat-4. The overall damage will likely create yet more tightness on panels in the SE and Texas regions, but may also create a slowdown as jobsites need to dry out. News that the WTO sided with Canada regarding the 2017 lumber tariffs placed by the U.S. on Canadian lumber was of secondary interest compared to the current dumpster fire that is the 2020 commodity wood market. Prices continue up across the board.
