Prices are F.O.B. mill, excluding freight

Trading activity stalled this week as buyers continued to show very little interest in high prices and late shipping loads. OSB has reached a tipping point and many believe the downward slide is fast approaching. Mills with quick shipping wood had no trouble selling at current levels while others were off the market sitting on extended order files. Weakness in #2 dimension SPF and SYP carried over from last week as buyers countered and reports of some triple digit price cuts surfaced. More and more supply is becoming available but field inventories remain lean so watch for a potential rebound soon.
