Prices are F.O.B. mill, excluding freight

This week we went Back to the Future as market insanity the likes of August ensued. Availability tightened and prices skyrocketed as buyers struggled to find wood in a still very busy building climate across the country. You name it, it shot up in price. Triple digit increases were not uncommon as mills easily sold and raised prices again and again. By week's end it was difficult to even find anyone willing to quote some items. OSB in the west and studs are red hot, as is SYP and SPF dimension lumber. Western plywood jumped hard on the heels of OSB. This market is not for the faint of heart. Holiday curtailments and trucking issues are only adding to the upward momentum.
