As we approach the holidays, the market continues to trend up on most commodity wood products. Concern that upcoming holiday curtailments could tighten supply relatively quickly on lumber and panel products has most buyers watching with caution. Trucking also tightens up after Halloween as Christmas tree season starts kicking into gear. Secondaries tend to whittle inventory positions down in November in preparation for year end, creating availability issues that get worse by the time we are sleeping off our Thanksgiving dinners. Don't get caught napping too soon!
