Lumber and panel markets were mixed to start the week, with SYP and GDF dimension still ticking up while SPF and SYP plywood gave ground. The tone got more bearish as the week wore on, though concern over the ever-tightening availability of trucks continues to be on the forefront across the country. Engineered Wood looks to be tightening up as suppliers continue to work in allocation mode. Inventories on quick shippimg loads of lumber and panels remain spotty at best. It would be wise to plan well ahead for anything you need in the short term.
