Commodity markets continue to find levels that keep supply and demand in check. Takeaway out West came to a standstill with yet another "Atmospheric River" pummeling the entire West Coast. The East and South had a slight perk up in demand as spring weather had delayed projects finally pushing forward. The banking fiasco and stock market continue to have traders/ buyers in the cash market on edge about future economic stability...keeping yard inventories at seasonal low levels. Suprisingly positive housing data released this morning caught investors eyes causing it to tick up limit by midday...but by far the most shocking news in a seemingly hush market was the Boys of Greenville, SC... Furman knocking off the seed Virginia Cavaliers in the opening round of March Madness.
