Commodity markets started the week off slowly but sporadically gained steam tailing into Friday. Maybe it was the sunny skies and unseasonably warm temperatures in much of the West - but markets did gain some momentum. Reports that mills sold blocks of dimension and bumped prices got buyers attention. Mill curtailments seem to be taking hold, certainly not driving prices hard, but firm to up most certainly in a number of species and regions. Western panels remain to the firm side as well, both OSB and plywood, while SYP plywood was mostly a yawner. If you happen to be lucky enough to be in a part of the country that is getting a spring teaser weather-wise, enjoy every second of it.
