Market trends from the last few weeks remain in place once again. GDF dimension - especially the narrows - continue to climb in price. In SYP dimension, numbers are adjusting in the opposite direction again this week as buyers digest recent purchases and remain on the sidelines. Dry DF remains relatively flat to slightly up, as does SPF dimension. Plywood prices continue to tick up week over week in both southern and western species, while OSB continues it's lackluster movement yet again. Fuel prices and surcharges continue to plague the industry as buyers absorb the additional cost to get wood to market. Some great NHL and NBA series going on these days as we get to the second rounds of those series. Enjoy your weekend and hopefully better weather wherever you are!
