The slow pace to end last week heading into the long holiday weekend showed little change this week. Inventories across most species remain tight, enabling mills and secondaries to continue pushing prices higher even with limited sales. With many buyers and traders attending the Inland Lumber Event in Coeur d'Alene the DF and HF markets have been especially quiet. Green DF maintained the upward momentum from the previous weeks as mills offer little supply and inventories in the field running lean. SPF continues to push higher right along with other northern species. Trucking availability and freight rates remain the hurdle in SYP markets, propping up prices and preventing loads from traveling outside of their production zone."
